PROFILE

I am a JR. web developer looking for a team to grow and learn from. As you can see from my work experience, I have begun a new career. I may lack direct experience in this new field, but I bring years of experience working in a production environment and an understanding of how to work effectively within a team to accomplish a goal.

Comparatively speaking, I am highly motivated and goal oriented. My personal activities, mountain biking, surfing and time with my daughter, reflect my personality. My current goal is to become an advanced JavaScript programmer working within a team production environment. What I lack in experience I bring in focus, determination and a strong desire to learn.
